Notice to Recipient

The Revenue Act of 1978 requires payers to report Unemployment Insurance payments, including Trade Readjustment Allowance (TRA) and Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA), of $10.00 or more. Payers must file Copy A of Form 1099G with the Internal Revenue Service and must furnish Copy B of the form to the person receiving the payments by January 31st of the year following the calendar year of the payments.

- Tax Year identifies the tax year in which the Unemployment Insurance benefits was paid.
- Total Benefits Paid represents the total amount of unemployment insurance benefits received in 2017 and should be reported as such on your federal 1040. In July 2017 the Illinois legislature passed an increase in the state income tax effective July 1, 2017. If you choose to use the blended rate that the Illinois Department of Revenue is offering in calculating your tax liability, then use the amount in Total Benefits Paid. However, if you elect to file Schedule SA-IL1040, which allows you break out your income before and after July 1, 2017 use the amounts in 'Benefits Paid: Jan-Jun' and 'Benefits Paid: Jul-Dec' to report benefits received before and after June 30, 2017. If you expect to receive these benefits in the future, you can ask the payer to withhold Federal Income Tax from your payment. You can also make estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals.
- State Tax Withheld shows the amount of your Unemployment Insurance benefits that were withheld, per your request, for state income tax purposes.
- Federal Tax Withheld shows the amount of your Unemployment Insurance benefits that were withheld, per your request, for federal income tax purposes.

If you were overpaid Unemployment Insurance Benefits and repaid the amount, it is still included in the Benefits Paid amount. If the repayment was made in the same year as the overpayment, make the necessary adjustments and notation on your Tax Form 1040 or 1040A. Future repayments should be adjusted and notated during the year in which you repaid the benefit.

This is important tax information and is being furnished to the Internal Revenue Service. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty or other sanction may be imposed on you if the Internal Revenue Service determines that it has not been reported.
